Cotton-Seed Oil Combine in Kirovabad, Azerb. SSR

- 1. Cotton-Seed Oil Combine in Kirovabad is located on Oktyabrskaya Street, just across from the Street Car Depot, and occupies an area of about 130 x 100 meters. Director of the Combine was (fnu) GADZHIYEV. (No other names available.) Facilities include the office building, storage areas for cotton seeds, and oil cakes, oil producing plant, soap manufacturing shop, shop making wooden boxes, electric power plant (three steam turbines), boiler room, four oil storage tanks, and railroad platform.
- 2. Cotton seeds are brought to the Combine by trucks from the Cotton Combine adjacent to the premises described herein, and are stored in the open. From here, seeds are taken to be cleaned and later pressed to extract the oil. There are three ginning machines which clean the seeds, and 15 presses, i.e., oil extracting machines. After purification process, oil is pumped into the storage tanks. Cotton-seed oil of two different qualities which is produced here is carried to an unknown destination by tank-trucks. (No other information available on quantity of production.)

 50X1-HUM

3. The Combine employs about 800 people in three shifts. Women make up about one-third of the working force and are employed mostly in the oil extracting shop. Machine shop and maintenance department employs about 20 people and operates in one shift.

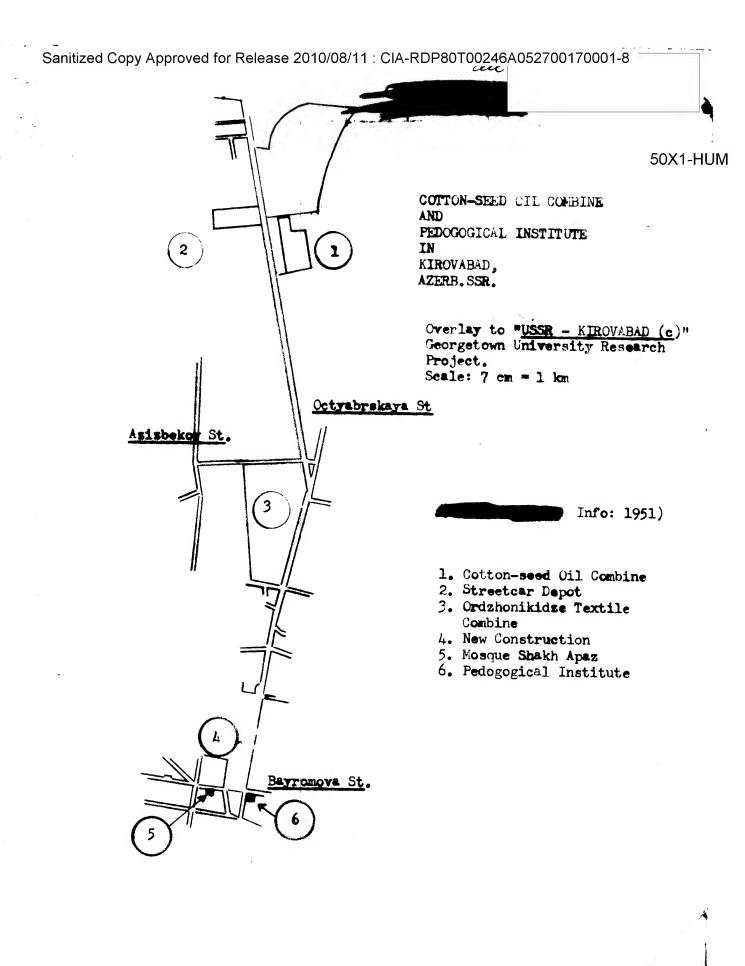

operate in three shifts. (No other information available on shops mentioned above.)

50ap-making shop and shop making wooden-boxes above above.

- 4. Security of the premises was maintained by the civilian guards. Entrance passes (without the bearers' pictures) were presented when entering or leaving the Combine. Also, employees were searched before leaving the premises.
- 5. Attachments: (1) Overlay to map of Kirovabad of the Georgetown University Research Project.
